Maria Bartiromo was the incarnation of the old school, median US female journalist (considering how abyssimal the profession had become). New York University, journalism / economics, Catholic high school, internship at CNN in the 1980s.